producing great works of art."

A popular stop on the tour was Georgette Unis' studio close to Memorial Park. The Claremont Graduate University alum has lived in the 10th Street home for 31 years and recently renovated her studio to separate wet and dry areas.

Ms. Unis works with clay for her sculptures and has a large open wall where she works her acrylic paintings. She believes studio tours like OpenART allow artists and art lovers to connect in new ways.

"It helps make people aware of the work that goes into each piece and allows them to get more familiar with your work," Ms. Unis said.

Following the tour, participants joined the artists at a reception at the home of Dan Van Clapp and Paula Van Horn. About $450 in book sales and $3,000 in ticket sales raised from the event will go toward current CMA operations and preparation to re-open in the future, Ms. McIntosh said.
